MANIFESTO GIVES UNIONIST PARTY POLICIES

UNITED STATES TO GET INVITATION TO NEAR EAST PARLEY
BIG THREE DECIDE

Eleven Invitations Will Be Issued, France, Britain and Italy Agree

AMERICA PROBABLY WILL HAVE OBSERVER

Participation Not Likely To Extend Farther Than That However

(Associated Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 26.—France, Italy and Great Britain have agreed to invite the United States to participate officially in the Near East peace conference at Lauzanne, Switzerland, Nov. 13.

Eleven invitations will be issued in all to the United States, Turkey, Greece, France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Jugoslavia and Rumania for the conference and to the Soviet Russian and Bulgarian governments to take part in the discussion of the Dardanelles.

Officials Silent.

(Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Pending receipt, in Washington, of the official invitation for American participation in the Lauzanne peace conference, official comment as to the American attitude is withheld. There is every reason to believe, however, that the trend of opinion in American government circles does not favor American intervention in the conference, beyond the possible appointment of an unofficial observer.

There is no reason to doubt that the Washington government to observe the conference proceedings unofficially and with keenest interest.

Huntsville Will Play Here Friday

Local fans will have football without stint Friday. Some will follow the fortunes of Albany High on foreign soil, others will go to Hartelle to see the two Morgans do battle, while those left behind will have an opportunity to see one of the best local contests of the season when Decatur meets Huntsville at Y. M. C. A. park.

The Decatur squad has been drilled especially this week to stop Huntsville. The Huntsville team, which held Central High of Birmingham for three quarters, is one of the best high school outfits in the state, but reports received here are to the effect that Huntsville has lost her big fullback, Hobart Peake, who was easily the star of the team.

The Decatur team now has reached the point where it begins to absorb plays readily and Huntsville must be prepared to stop a "bag of offensive tricks."

Brother of King Taken in Custody

(Associated Press.)

ATHENS, Oct. 26.—The newspapers announce that Prince Andrew, brother of former King Constantine, was arrested yesterday at Corfu on the charge that he contributed to the disaster of the Greek Army in Asia Minor. He will be brought to Athens and interned in the palace.

TAX PAYMENTS

Licenses for motor cars and general licenses are 200 ahead of a similar time last year, according to attaches at the probate judge's office. As the month wanes and draws to a close, a greater number are noticed making applications for license tags and business license as well. The tax becomes delinquent on November 1st and many have this fact in mind. A penalty of 15 cent will be taxed up after it becomes delinquent.

MRS. JANE GIBSON CAN IDENTIFY THE MAN 'BEHIND GUN' REPORTER IS TOLD

Witness Declares She Recognized Man At Office Of the Prosecutor

SAW COMPANION AT RUMMAGE SALE ONCE

Sure of Her Identification of Principals in Famous Double Murder

(Associated Press.)

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Jane Gibson, pig raiser, who claims to have witnessed the murder of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, today told a newspaper man that she had identified the man who she says shot the rector, as well as identifying the woman, who, she asserts, was with the murderer.

Mrs. Gibson, who was on the Phillips farm the night of the double murder, looking for torn thieves, and who claims to have heard the murderer's name called by his woman companion, said that she did not know the identity of the slayer at the time, but that she recently had recognized him in the prosecutor's office in New Brunswick.

Mrs. Gibson, who it was learned yesterday, had told the authorities the name of the murderer's companion, said today that she had once met her at a rummage sale and instantly had recognized her at the scene of the murder on the Phillips farm.

She added that she had seen her since the double killing and was sure of her recognition.

Amplifying her previous story Mrs. Gibson said she rode on a mule back from her home into Derussy's Lane, following a wagon without lights, which she thought was driven by corn thieves.

She said she saw the wagon turn into Eastern Avenue toward New Brunswick. The lane intersects Eastern Avenue just beyond Lover's Lane in which the two bodies were found.

Just at the intersection Mrs. Gibson said she saw an old style automobile standing in the lane. Beside the machine, she declared, were a man and a woman and she stopped her mule about 40 feet from them. Just then, her story goes, another machine turned into the lane and the flood of light from its headlights fell upon the two persons beside the old machine.

After a conference with his detectives, Prosecutor Mott told newspaper men that he was in a position to make an arrest at once, but that he preferred to wait until a more opportune time. Mr. Mott declared that because of certain information which has just reached him, he thought it unnecessary to question anybody today and so notified all those to whom he had sent summons.

The second automobile, she said, backed out of the lane and sped away on Eastern Avenue, but while the lights were thrown on the old machine, she recognized the man and woman. She says they both stepped out of the light into the shadow before the second automobile turned around.

Mrs. Gibson said that the woman wore a grey coat extending to her ankles. She says the man had a heavy dark mustache, bushy eyebrows and was of heavy build.

"When I went to the prosecutor's office," the farm woman said today, "I saw this man and recognized him as the one who was standing beside the car." Mrs. Gibson says that after the second car had withdrawn, the man and woman crossed Derussy's Lane and were seen by Mrs. Gibson.

She must visit these places and make a personal investigation and report to headquarters.

When John E. Hoff, who is here on a visit to his nephew, A. H. Hoff, first went to Los Angeles, Cal., "land could be bought for a song, and a very discordant song at that," said the visitor.

But it must not be gathered from Mr. Hoff's unique remark, that land ever sold in the golden state as low as $10, left the bench and walloped Anthony in the eye. Anthony took the count, but Judge Burke dragged him to his feet and knocked him down again.

"Now we'll see how he likes it," he said and resumed his judicial poise. His unique legal decision proved exceedingly popular.

REPRESENTATIVE OF CHILDREN'S AID HERE TO HELP THE KIDDIES

Miss Sarah Axford of Birmingham, representing the Children's Aid Division of the State Child Welfare department, is in the city making some specific investigations relative to children who come under the provisions of the benevolence of this state department at this place. The Children's Aid Division is a new department of child welfare work, and was opened with headquarters at Birmingham in October and embraces the work over the northern part of the state.

The value of this work can hardly be appreciated at first glance. Through its field representatives it searches out and finds those children who are being brought up under improper conditions, and child need of every kind comes within the scope of their labors. When children of this class are found they are given homes where the surroundings are wholesome for young life, given school advantages, and every effort made to develop them into Christian lives of usefulness.

Miss Axford is very enthusiastic over her work which requires a great deal of patience and adroitness to arrive at the facts when making an investigation along the lines of her work. As an instance of the patience required, and the great amount of territory to be covered before all the facts in the case under investigation can be gained, was ascertained today while Miss Axford made an investigation today, interviewing the father of three motherless children, the father being detained in the county jail. It was found that one of the children in question was with a family on an island down the Tennessee river near Hillsboro, another was at a point in Limestone County and still another was near Summit in Blount County.

To make her report complete, she must visit these places and make a personal investigation and report to headquarters.

SHORTEST COTTON SEASON FOR LONG TIME NEARING END WITH PRICES GOOD

Spot Sales Likely To Stop Around the First of December

CHURCHILL COMPRESS IS BEING KEPT BUSY

Approximately 30,000 Bales Already Have Been Handled At Local Press

Aided by favorable weather and hurried by higher prices, Tennessee Valley farmers are completing one of the shortest cotton seasons in many years.

Cotton men today were predicting that the first of December would see the end of the 1922 season. As a result of the rapid picking of the crop, the Churchill compress here is doing a rushing business.

Superintendent C. C. Cox today estimated receipts of about 1,000 bales of cotton each day. Today there were approximately 15,000 bales of cotton in the company's warehouses, compared with about 11,000 last year.

The total receipts for the season, it is estimated, will go near the 75,000 mark. Approximately 30,000 bales have been handled to date.

A full force of billing clerks and warehouse men are busily engaged checking out and delivering cotton to the Railroads to be delivered to markets throughout the world.

As at present arranged the local warehouses of the Churchill company will hold close to 30,000 bales of cotton, altho rated at around only 18,000 capacity.

Any bale in the present store of close to 15,000 bales is easily loaded and loaded on trucks, as the book account of any given bale corresponds exactly with the physical location of the same bale on warehouse floors, which by the way cover acres and acres. There are a number of warehouses, some being under federal supervision, and some merely under the regular compress account; but all the warehouse stocks are bonded when requested.

The top notch capacity of the Churchill company is 75,000 bales in a season. The mighty compress machine—an invention made during the present generation has a capacity of 125 bales an hour. It starts every morning at 7 o'clock, and continues its work until all the orders for compressed cotton are caught up with. 20,000 bales have been handled to date.

Howard Dorm Is Destroyed By Fire

(Associated Press.)

BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 26.—Fire today destroyed Crampton Hall, a dormitory, used as living quarters by Miss French Haynes, dean of women, and 16 girl students, at Howard College. The loss was estimated at $6,000. The occupants were engaged in class work when the fire broke out and practically all of their clothing and personal effects were lost.

U. S. MONEY RECEIVED

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—Government checks amounting to $23,318.77, representing federal aid to match Alabama state funds for the construction of public highways and bridges in Alabama, were received Wednesday, by George W. Ellis, state treasurer.

"Money is the commonest thing we know out our way—we don't know where it comes from, but everybody (out of modesty Mr. Hoff excepted himself) has got it. To give you an illustration. As I had nothing else to do, I showed a man in passing some of our new fruit—"The Avocado"—I did not know who he was from Adam's off ox. I gave him one avocado, and told him when he ate it he would be like "Oliver Twist and holler for more."

"The man wanted to buy a dozen. So I told him their wholesale price was $1.00 a piece, but since he was there, I would let him have a dozen for a dozen dollars. That man looked his pockets through faithfully, and got out all kinds of big bills from $100.00 to $1,000.00 and he liked never to have found enough small money to pay me."

The story of the "Avocado" is one all to its self, and added to what Mr. Hoff knows about fruit farming in California would make good reading matter.

Andrew Bonar Law Sets Forth Chief Tasks For His Party
PLEDGES SUPPORT TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS
Would Encourage More Friendly Relations With the United States

(Associated Press.) LONDON, Oct. 26.—A proclamation dissolving parliament was signed by King George this morning at a privy council. The manifesto declares it will be the government's aim, if returned, to give wholehearted and practical support to the League of Nations, to fulfil the obligations Great Britain has undertaken abroad, but not to extend her commitments, but preferably to curtail them and to maintain friendship and good understanding with the United States.

Nation Needs Rest.
(Associated Press.)

GLASGOW, Oct. 26.—Prime Minister Bonar Law, in discussing his policy, told a meeting of the West Scotland Unionists Association today "my strong belief is that this nation needs, above everything else, rest and tranquility and my policy will be a negative one in this sense."

The government's policy, the Prime Minister said, would leave the recovery from the war to untrammeled initiative of the men and women of the country.

Mr. Bonar Law was unanimously adopted today as the Conservative and Unionist candidate for parliament from the central division of Glasgow. A resolution of confidence in him was passed. He arrived here this morning to open his campaign in the general election.

A cordial reception marked his arrival.

Ballot Boxes For Election Ready

The ballots for the regular election to be held on November 7, have been received at the office of the probate judge, and will be distributed to the various ballot boxes and sent to the different polling places during the next few days. The ballot is not near so lengthy as the one used in the primary election, and it will be an easy job to count and tabulate the results, compared with the long time which was necessary to count and tabulate the result of the primary. The Democratic, Republican, Socialist and Independent party candidates appear on each ticket, and in voting a cross is made at the top of the column indicating the elector's choice.

Confession Said To Clear Attorney

(Associated Press.) JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 26.—Frank Rawlings, who with John H. Pope, Jacksonville attorney, was convicted of murder in the first degree for killing George H. Hickman, theatrical man, here in September, 1921, has confessed, according to Pope's attorney, that he implicated Pope in the hope that by so doing, he would escape capital punishment. Rawlings and Pope were sentenced to life imprisonment and the state's supreme court last week refused Pope's request for a new trial.

ALABAMA; HERE WE REST.

A wonderful state is Alabama. Blessed with a shore line extending for hundreds of miles, at which the ships of all nations touch. A climate unbeatable, and land as productive as the best, growing in luxuriance two crops of many fine food products annually. Her forests abound in numerous kinds of hard woods, and her domesticated and wild fruits grow in abundance. Her streams abound in many numerous species of fish, and in season, Bob White, the turtle dove, snipe and field lark, call to the stubble where there is plenty of sport. Red and grey foxes are numerous among the mountain passes, and those who have a pack of deep mouthed fox dogs may have the sport for going after it. Rabbits are so numerous in all sections that they border on a pest, and o'possums are so plentiful, and fat from eating the frost ripened persimmons that, they can be caught with all ease, owing to their delicious, fatness not being able to make a decent attempt to get away. Her creek ways and valley lands abound in many fine fur bearing animals, which annually yield up considerable revenue to trappers in season. Her public school system is of the best, and her school buildings are multiplying at a fast rate, as her bright faced boys and girls, and young men and women enter their portals to pursue in the things which will make them safe custodians of her vastness in the future, which offers greater rewards for intelligent effort than ever before. Churches erected to the living God dot her surface on every hand, and her public highways of macadam construction, shine in this Autumnal sunlight like silver ribbons through her rich and alluvial soil. We started to speak of her beautiful women and brave men, but enough has already been said to eliminate competitive comparison.

DR. LYMAN ABBOTT REGARDED AS A GOOD AND GREAT MAN.

The recent death of Lyman Abbott, Editor, minister and publicist at the ripe age of 87, removes one of the most influential men of our times. Dr. Abbott, studied and trained for the law, and was admitted to the bar. He changed to the pulpit early in life and his first charge in an obscure western town he held for five years.

Before the death of Henry Ward Beecher, in many respects the most widely known preacher this country ever produced, Lyman Abbott became his friend and advisor, so it was but natural when Beecher died for Abbott to be called to the famous Plymouth pulpit.

After something like seven years service to this congregation, Dr. Abbott assumed the editorship of a weekly known as the "Outlook" and from his desk as editor he preached to more people than ever heard Beecher or himself from the famous Plymouth pulpit.

The record shows that Dr. Abbott, succeeded in all three of the great professions he under took—an unusual record in a country and in an age noted for remarkable accomplishments.

It is said Dr. Abbott might have been a great scientist, and that if he had given his time wholly to philosophy he might have ranked with Ralph Waldo Emerson. Dr. Abbott's friendly critics claim he chose a wiser and a better part than to specialize in any one thing. They contend that he allowed the demands of his day and generation to control his activities; and that in making such a choice he entered upon a career that exercised every one of his many splendid talents.

Dr. Abbott is credited with taking a lively interest in political affairs, although he never offered for office. Especially was he active in politics about the time Theodore Roosevelt was associated with the "Outlook" as a contributing editor.

But it was in the realm of religion that Lyman of a distinguished line of ministers and church leaders. And like most first class thinkers in religious matters he found it impossible to agree to the truth, wholly as expressed by any particular religious sect. But he did not become doubtful or unbelieving but on the other hand he found important phases of the truth in all the Christian faiths.

Because of his broad culture and tolerance, he is said to have influenced many men of keen intellect, who otherwise would have ignored the truths of religion. He compelled the attention of the most critical and exacting, for while they could never accuse him of narrowness or bigotry, neither could they deny his faith in the fundamentals of religious belief.

It is claimed that Dr. Abbott's editorial utterances, during the most fruitful period of his life, were more influential, than those from any of the great pulpits of the country.

The consensus of the many opinions expressed concerning Dr. Abbott, is that in his death America loses a truly good and great man.

A CALIFORNIA NEWSPAPER
BORN FULL GROWN

Like a certain mythological character of the past, said to have sprung full grown from the head of Zeus, the first issue of the "The Fresno Bee," of Fresno, Cal., was born full grown—sixty pages full of news and catchy advertisements.

The new daily, is to be edited and published by the sons of James McClatchy, founder of the famous "Sacramento Bee," an Irish immigrant who came to America and took the advice of Horace Greeley, the famous journalist—"Young man go west".

The paper's front page contains a "god-speed" from Hiram Johnson, lately renominated for the United States Senate, who speaks of himself as having come in "affectionate contact" with the makers of the new paper. In an other part of the paper, there is an appreciative news story telling that the Democratic opponent of Mr. Johnson for the senate will speak at a neighboring city. Thus the new paper while no doubt for Johnson tooth and toe nail, does not discriminate against his opponent in the matter of news publicity. Editorially the "Bee" says it prints all the news, and editorially prints what it thinks" and that thinking is its own". If the ambitious plans of the makers of the "Fresno Bee" are carried out, or the half of them—it is destined to be a great newspaper.

IN GOOD SHAPE FOR WINTER

With winter weather just a short distance ahead, finds the people of this county generally speaking, in fine shape, with one of the best periods of conservation of their resources, embraced and used in such a way manner which has insured to the county in a large measure, such items of sustenance and money crops, which will carry over past the period of inactivity until another crop can be planted and carried through to maturity.

The very pretty weather which has prevailed for the past 60 days, and which is quite unusual as to rainfall, has been used to splendid advantage, and all the energy of those who had crops to gather has been pressed toward that end. As a consequence, practically all of the cotton has been gathered before the leaves of the cotton stalk has been killed by frost, adding in a great measure to the gathering of this important crop, and practically all of it has been sold at a figure above 20c.

Many are now awaiting such a time as they can kill and save their pork, and many fine ones are reported over the county. There is plenty of fine beef to meet all requirements, and there is absolutely nothing short, unless it might be the coin of the realm, of which there is always a scarcity, for as a people we never become satisfied as to quantity along this line. This season as compared with the fall of 1920 finds every department of endeavor in much better condition, and with faces set forward with hope and expectancy that all will be well.

BEAUTIFUL AUTUMN.

There is seldom ever witnessed prettier Autumnal weather than we are now having. Not only is the weather clear and cool enough to be comfortable at all hours of the day, but there is the presence yet of many of the Spring flowers and the landscape is great in festoons of gold and purple and nut brown.

If we drink deep of this ravishing beauty nature is so lavishly pouring out upon us, we will be inspired for the present, and fortified for the dreary season which will come when the cold wet days of winter keeps us in doors. To drink deep of these conditions when there is every thing to cheer and make happy as we continually bask in price we are called upon to pay for so great a gift, and if we are happy and our thoughts go out to the giver of all good, no greater tribute is called for.

DEMOCRATIC HOPE—THE WEST.

In the next presidential election the south must look to the west for success. The east deserted the south in 1912, and again in 1920. It is no longer to be looked to by the south for success of the Democratic party. It is so completely wrapt up in big business, so absolutely controlled by commercialism, it can only be depended on when it is permitted to name the candidate of the party, and failing in this it fails of its support.

Whatever may be the sentiment in eastern states, there is little, if any question, as to the growth of progressivism in the west.

We only have to take one illustration at this time, the platform recently adopted by the Nebraska Democrats. It is the platform upon which men, heretofore classed as reactionaries, deep dyed in the wool, like Senator Hitchcock, will stand in this campaign, and Hitchcock for the first time in many years will be supported by Bryan and the progressive forces of his state.

As this platform clearly indicates, there is a rising tide of progressivism throughout the west, and it should be added, this is confined to no one party.

The following extracts, giving the more important planks in the Nebraska platform, are reprinted at this time as tending to prove the contention of The Journal that only a progressive candidate for president in 1924 will have any chance of election. There is wanting no evidence that this is true. It is not a guess or speculation but a fact. The following are the extracts from the Nebraska platform referred to:

"We charge that the burdens and wrongs under which we suffer are due to the rule of special privilege, to the domination of favored classes, to gross extravagance in public affairs, to government that has divorced itself from fealty to the will of the people."

"We believe that the outstanding need of government, as of society and industry, is a spirit of tolerance and helpfulness. The rule of hate has made the world sick and feeble. For its regeneration in communities, state and nation, we invoke the rule of love and human brotherhood."

"We pledge ourselves to the furtherance of the cause of world peace through common council, cooperation and good will."

"We pledge ourselves to drastic retrenchment and economy in government and particularly to a reduction in naval and military expenditures, to the peace basis of a peaceful people."

"We pledge ourselves to oppose special privilege in all its myriad forms, including the tariff and ship subsidy bills favored by the administration and now pending in congress."

"We demand the amendment of the Esch-Cummins act for the regulation of railroads on their return to private ownership and pledge ourselves to such regulatory measures as will deal justly with labor as well as with the farmers and shippers, all of whom alike are now the victims of undue favor shown to railroad investments and managements.

"We are opposed to child labor in industry and pledge ourselves to whatever governmental action may be necessary to effectively prohibit it."

"We favor the eight-hour day for labor and the principle of collective bargaining between capital and labor."

"We favor and pledge our candidates to the immediate passage of an adjusted compensation act which shall embody the five-fold plan requested by the ex-service men's organizations and the raising of revenues therefor from war profits and the collection of a sufficient amount of the foreign war debts to serve the purpose."

"We stand unalterably, as from the beginning, for the primary system, for the preservation intact of the power which it reposes in the hands of the people."

"We favor water power development under state control to furnish light, heat and power at the lowest possible cost to the people."

"It will be seen that the platform covers everything demanded by the progressives of both parties, and is carefully and prayerfully prepared. In its very first declaration it practically covers everything else when it says that "We charge that the burdens under which we suffer are due to the rule of special privilege, to the domination of favored classes, to gross extravagance in public affairs, to government that has divorced itself from fealty to the will of the people."

"This is a platform in itself that ought to make not only possible, but certain democratic success in the presidential election in 1924.—Montgomery Journal.

A past master in the husband business is one who can read the political and football dope, and tell his wife what is in the social column, all at the same time.

Why all this rumpus about Uncle Sam stopping foreign vessels attempting to bring booze into America. If ships started in our harbors with guns they would be stopped.

The inclusion of the Albany squad in their football schedule by Rogersville seems to have proven one of those little oversights that spoiled an otherwise perfectly good record for the Colbert boys.

If some of our politicians are depending on getting to heaven via. Montgomery and Washington, it is respectfully suggested that they choose a more direct route.

Benjamin Harrison 1889-1893. The twenty-third president was the grandson of William Henry Harrison, the ninth president, and was born in Ohio in 1833. His great-grandfather, Benjamin Harrison, was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He served throughout the civil war. He had the benefit of a college education, graduating from Miami University. He was made president at the age of 55, and lived eight years after his term was completed. General Harrison was a Presbyterian. On March 13, 1901, he succumbed to an attack of pneumonia, and his remains rest in Crown Hill Cemetery, Indianapolis. Next, William McKinley.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES Time's Changes

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

HERE!" said the woman with the hair that had once been brown. "There it is! The very same platform—why, they've put up a new station—with a waiting-room—yes, sure enough, there's a dining-room, too.

"And do look at the hotel across the street and as sure as you live, that's a roadster, and a good roadster, too, standing in front of it!

"Times have certainly changed. When I got off the Limited here the first time I crossed the continent, we'd never heard of such a thing as an automobile, and the station was just a shack, and a tumble-down shack at that.

"But the station-master was a darling, anyhow. I remember he gave me part of his lunch when I landed here, all forlorn, and had to wait for the old Mormon who was coming after me in a buckboard.

Lots of Fun!

"Never saw a buckboard? Well, you didn't miss much! One seat, and no back to that—no cover to protect you from the rain or the sun, and your feet never touched the floor of the thing at all. I drove three days in one across the desert.

"Not a spear of grass—not a bush—not a tree—not one inch of shade and the thermometer at 120 all the way. We carried the drinking water in a little barrel under the seat and drank out of the bunghole. Oh, we didn't make a fuss about individual drinking cups in those days, and—whisper—I don't see that we died any younger, at that!

"We had to creep under the buckboard to eat our luncheon, the old Mormon and I—that was to keep in the shade, and at night we stayed with families along the road.

"One place I remember was a cattle ranch, and there were cowboy, and mustangs and riatas and things. I thought 'twas very romantic, and when I got to the ranch where I was going, I had a beautiful time.

"I was the first American girl in the county, and before I had been there a week I had thirteen proposals of marriage. It was lots of fun!

"The boys used to ride in and hitch their ponies outside the house and then they'd come and sit on the porch and play 'Wait 'Til the Clouds Roll By, Jessie,' and 'My Wild Irish Rose' on the mouth organ. But before they went home they'd get me off in a corner somewhere and tell me how lonesome they were, and how they wished they could find a nice girl to come and be happy as a cowboy's bride.

Well, Well!

"And they gave a dance for me, too, at the cross-roads, and three of them had a fight over me. Oh, I loved it all! When I came back four rods beside me all the way to the train—well! well! It seems like a dream!

"And here we are, in the Limited, in the drawing-room, hot and cold water—ladies maid—porter, and all!

"What? Dangerous? Why, I never thought of such a thing! Some of those men were rough, I suppose, if I'd known the truth about them, but if they had been princes of the blood royal and I a princess, myself, they couldn't have treated me with any more courtesy and consideration.

"I rode all over that desert, a hundred and fifty miles—and up into the mountains, through the forests, day in and day out—sometimes with one escort at my stirrup and sometimes half a dozen, and I never heard one word that couldn't have been spoken in my mother's drawing-room.

"Yes, I suppose times have improved—everybody says they have. My daughter is horrified when she thinks of my going around alone like that, with all those men. But, pshaw! I knew them the minute I looked at them—and they knew me, and I was safer with them, out alone in the desert, than she would be today downtown in a brilliant restaurant with one of her up-to-date admirers!"

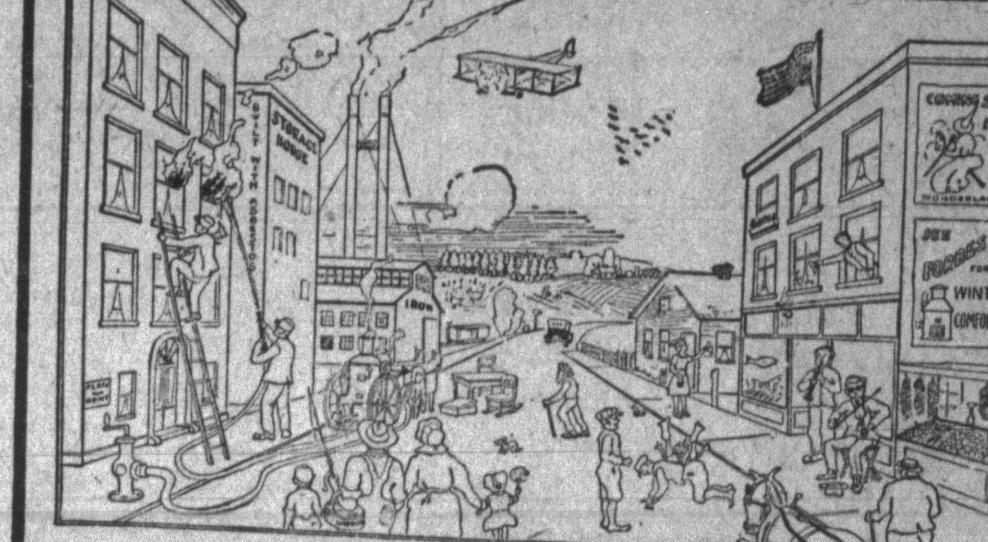

And, somehow, the woman whose hair had once been brown looked a little sad, and a little puzzled, and I believe I looked sad and puzzled, too, for I know I felt so.

"Times change and we change with them," says the old proverb.

Sometimes I wonder if all the changes are always for the better.

You $2000.

Costs You Nothing to Try—So Solve This Puzzle

How Many Words Can You Find in This Picture Commencing With the Letter "F"?

For example, you will notice "Fire," "Fiddle," "Foundry," etc. Are you able to find 20 words commencing with the letter "F"? The picture is very clear: there can be no mistakes. You will find it very interesting to look for these words, and may win the big prize. Anybody can try—costs nothing. Why should you not be the winner of the $2000.00?

YOU SHOULD WIN

real chance of winning at least one of the prizes offered—there are fifteen of them. Why not try for the First Prize. You surely have a good chance as anybody's.

Just think what you could do with the money. $2000.00 could buy an automobile and leave enough balance to make a payment on a cozy home. Perhaps you would just the thing you would like to do if you received a check for $2000.00. Certainly you owe it to yourself to solve this puzzle. You will find the trying very easy.

RULES: 1. This puzzle is open to everybody except employees and relatives of the Yeastolax Co.

2. The First Prize is $2000.00. The contestants agree to make the same amount available for the benefit of the Yeastolax Co. and it is understood that the names of winners and amounts of prizes will be published on the back of the Yeastolax Co. label.

3. The Second Prize and the third are to be awarded to the persons whose names will be on the list of winners.

4. The fourth and fifth are to be awarded to the persons whose names will be on the list of winners.

BIRTHDAY DINNER PARTY.

On his birth anniversary, Ted Sheppard took occasion to entertain some of his friends at dinner at the home of his brother, R. T. Sheppard on Wednesday evening.

The guests gathered around the dining table and dainty little red baskets, filled with nuts, held the place cards which bore the following names: Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Shelton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lide, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Bloodworth, John W. Jones, Ted Sheppard and Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Sheppard.

Gorgeous red dahlias in vases were placed about the room and the choicest centered the dining table where a perfectly delicious five course menu was served.

WEDNESDAY CARD CLUB.

Mrs. Earl Calvin beautifully entertained the Wednesday Card Club and a few friends on yesterday afternoon. The interior of the home was decorated in red and white dahlias and chrysanthemums. A delightful plate luncheon was enjoyed at the conclusion of the bridge game.

The club prize was won by Mrs. F. S. Hunt and the trophy for the guests was awarded to Mrs. T. A. Caddell and she in turn presented it to Mrs. Steinhart, of Greenville, Ala., the out of town visitor. Those playing besides club members were: Mrs. W. B. Marksteen, Mrs. Steinhart, Mrs. T. A. Caddell, Mrs. W. N. Hall, Mrs. E. W. Godbey, Mrs. Gordon McDuff, Mrs. Brentz Pruitt, Mrs. E. A. Tillery, Mrs. Maurice Ford and Miss Unity Dancy.

THAT KNITTED GARMENT QUESTION

A Host of Frocks and Capes Appear to Win Popularity

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

A SIDE from the myriad small fashion items that are emphasized with each new season's offerings, there is always one particular note which finds itself the centre of interest. Many indications now point to the knitted garment as the centre, perhaps, of spring popularity.

It is true that garments of the knitted genre have already appeared, but we may consider these appearances as only the first few inklings of a mode that will increase in popularity with the weeks.

A purple-silk and yellow-wool mixture makes the charming cape costume at the left. Stripes of the same material, but more closely knitted than the rest of the garment, form an interesting scallop treatment. The straight-line frock shows a turn-back collar and a tie belt, while the simple cape is collared in beaver.

The purple felt hat with softly rolling brim shows over-stitching of yellow wool.

An all-wool mixture of black, gray and yellow forms the suit at the right, while white silk makes an interesting border in Arabian design. The tie belt carries out the color mixture.

The hat worn with this costume is one of the new stenciled felts, showing black and yellow on gray, tasseled in black.

The condition of Mrs. Elliott Peck who has been under treatment at Benevolent Hospital for the past week, is much improved today, and sanguine hope as to her complete recovery is now apparent. This will be good news to her many friends who have been anxiously awaiting some tidings which would give them hope of her recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Furst have returned from a two months' stay at Garden City.

Mr. and Mrs. Grayson have taken apartments with Miss Rosa Cartwright.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford left this week for Asheville, N. C., where they will reside in the future.

Miss Lillie Mae Tidwell has returned from a visit to relatives in Tullahoma, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Owen have taken an apartment with Mrs. J. M. Minor on Johnson Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomason have moved to the Hildreth House on Jackson Street in Decatur.

Mrs. J. J. Burke is ill at her home on Walnut Street in Decatur.

Puzzled Father Never Saw the "Twins"

One of the most mysterious cases in recent years has cropped out at Hammond, Ind., where Frank McNauly, fifty-five, accused his wife of the murder of their "twins." Mrs. McNauly's defense was that her husband, eager for children forced her to nurse dolls and pretend they were flesh and blood and that she was never the mother of real children.

Ten Thousand American Farmers
May Become Russian Land Tillers

MOSCOW, Sept. 20.—The Russian-American population of Soviet Russia now totals more than 20,000 persons.

Ludwig Mariens, formerly Soviet representative in the United States, who recently has been charged with the colonization of and assistance to the returning emigres, told the Associated Press that since about January, 1921, 20,000 persons have come from America to Russia, thanks to the work of the Technical Aid Society, which has organizations in many cities.

Some of these colonists are sorry they left their homes in the United States and Canada, while others appear perfectly contented in Russia.

The correspondent has met both varieties. All of them have had interesting experiences, and those who have lived long in America, or the native born Americans who join various colonies, are bringing something of American methods and American standards to cities, villages and farms all over Russia.

The majority of those who have come from America and Canada to Soviet Russia are agricultural laborers and farmers, "Mr. Martens said, "Of these there are several groups, for example at Tamboff, Kuban and Odessa. To each, if he desires to work his ground alone, five dessas of equipment is preparing to turn out American cut clothes.

Among the industrial groups there are 30 tool and die workers who, under the name of the Link Tool Corporation group, are introducing die-casting in Russia. There are also two groups of tailors, one long established, which brought $75,000 worth of equipment is preparing to turn out American cut clothes.

GAME CALLED AT 3:30

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

New York, Oct. 25.—With the announcement of the opening of the opera each year I renew my vow to attend oftener and write more about it. When I asked Ernest Aimless if he would go with me this season, he replied that he never felt satisfied when he came away because he divided his time between trying to follow the superb orchestration and the marvelous voices, and got neither. There is something in that. The whole effect is overwhelming. With the orchestra, the ballet, the new sensations in singers, the old favorites, the advanced scenic effect, and the audience, it is both an earful and an eyeful. Mr. Gatti-Gasazza announces the opening for November 18th with Jeritza in "Tosca." "The Rose-Cavalier" is to be revived in the opening week and Chaliapin is to sing as well. Important new artists are Ina Bourskaya, Edweard Johnson, Edmund Burke, and Armand Tokatyan. The last is an Armenian tenor. The plans call for several new presentations.

"Shall Broadway be renamed Easy Street?" Posters in many colors make that query along Broadway. The name Progressive Civic League appears on them. Twelve reasons are given why it should be so named. I do not know what is behind it, but I do know that the easy ones always land there.

One day several candidates for a position with a large corporation were sitting in the office waiting to hear which one was to be chosen for the place. The employment manager who had been interviewing each one of them, emerged from the inner office and said, "The man for this job is the man who wrote the bold, assertive, red-blooded signature on this application blank. Which one of you wrote it? I can't read it." We are forgetting how to write. It is because business has adopted the writing machine and there is no longer a market for admirable penmanship. Not only does present day business not seek skillful penman, but in some cases it actually tries to avoid them. The applicant for the job who writes a tedious, labored letter by hand is viewed with doubt. They think he would have shown himself smarter if he had gone out and hired a public stenographer to do it for him.

Every one talks money depression here. There is a nice story going around told by Arthur Brisbane. It is about a young man in Vienna who inherited one million kronen during the war on the death of his father. He was considered very rich at that time, but decided to be frugal and save his money. He therefore put it out at interest and lived on the interest, leaving the bulk of the fortune to the value of $15 and his annual income is 50 cents. Brisbane says that it is a true story. Now it seems to me that you might call that financial depression.

Two of my favorite stage artists are to be cast in my favorite play by my favorite author. Margalo Gillmore, late of "He Who Gets Slapped," and Leslie Howard, late of "Serpent's Tooth," are to appear in A. A. Milne's "The Romantic Age." If that isn't a wholesome romp, I am going to give up the theatre. There will be no trouble for Mr. Thomas to untangle in that combination.

The newest kind of "bootlegging" is in the feather industry. The present tariff act bans paradise feathers, and trading in that commodity must hereafter be secret and illicit. Whatever comes in must be smuggled and secretly traded when put out. The plumes are no longer in the windows. But there are enough in town, and here and there women are beginning to whisper that they know where some may be had. Still I don't suppose the taste for paradise is so general as to rival the original form of bootlegging.

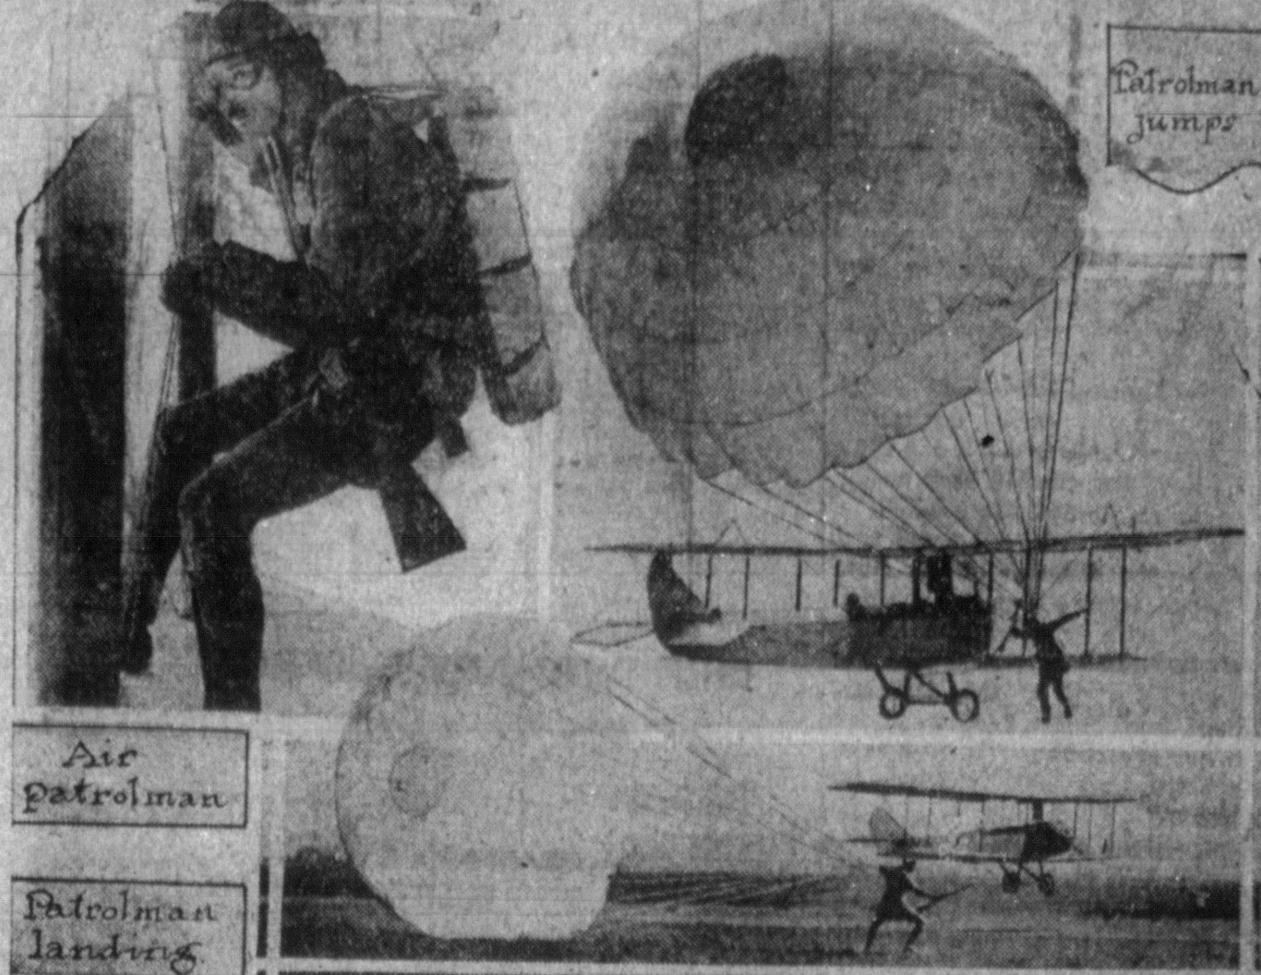

Does your cook sing? Do you make that talent a qualification for her employment? I quote an ad recently seen here. Wanted a good pastry cook with full resonant voice; contralto only need apply." I suppose the next step will be to have them dance with the food. Our meals, which are already too much a serious performance of sustaining life, will become artistic moments in our lives to be looked forward to three times a day.

Imagine a crowd out in front of Tiffany's on the Avenue in the early morning just before the store opened. Now Tiffany's does not have bargain sales. Crowds do frequently gather in front of a red fronted store further up the street for Wednesday morning bargains, but not here. Nor do folks set out to rob Tiffany's. My bus stopped in front and I was curious to know the reason. A mouse had been caught between the brass stand pipe and the store front. What could this creature have hoped to steal within that great establishment? It had merely escaped from a near-by cellar, where its nest had been disturbed, by the cruel electric drill plowing in the rocks for the planting of a new building. "Give it a chance the crowd clamored. So the city mouse staged across the pavement, the crowd making way. Out into the traffic it scampered, not heading the "Don't Get Hurt" signs, and met a truly metropolitan fate. The sporting behavior of the crowd was interesting. The pest of many a household was exterminated on the streets.

Ernest Aimless has been making speeches in the state campaign. He was assigned to the county committee, which is responsible for the many out-door meetings chiefly taken over by the candidates for the State Assembly. It was pretty cold the other night and crowds were hard to get. He conceived the idea of putting one speaker up in the machine and putting the other occupants out in front as listeners. He suggested that the speaker pretend to be arguing with one of them. He took the part of the questioner in the street. It worked. The crowd gathered. Ernest allowed the speaker to abuse him, and then the speaker went on with his message to the voters. This stunt was repeated with success on several corners, and each time Ernest had to drift away from the crowd defeated and forlorn. On the next post he insisted that he should be the speaker from the car. His confederate in the crowd made a criticism of some kind and Ernest answered. But so vindictive, abusive, and vituperative did Ernest become, that out of sheer sympathy with the "Innocent by-stander" the crowd turned on Ernest, and he was obliged to drive away leaving the owner of the car advocating a policy with which he was not in entire sympathy.

NEW YORK, October 25.—The dial system on the telephones now installed here on one of the big exchanges is proving a boon to the secretive. One mellow bachelor of forty is actually moving to get into the district. "In the old days," he explained, "every time I wanted to make a call from the office the operator listened in. As I was usually trying to date some one up for lunch or dinner I wasn't keen about having the whole office know it. With the switch board girl knowing every one knew. She used to recognize some of the numbers I called, and her smile and the office boy's smile lived. Under the new system I got all my own numbers, and while some one may overhear what I say, no one gets the come back of the lady."

Greater New York is going to have a silver anniversary soon. Twenty-five years a city under the existing charter! And what a thriving institution it is. But this time it is the bride who takes the initiative in arranging the celebration. The business women of New York feel that they should take occasion to remind the country that this is the clearing house for the activities of the business women. The American Business Woman's Association, Inc., will therefore offer its equipment and services for the thousands of business women of the country whose business activities bring them into constant touch with New York, on the occasion of the celebration of the anniversary.

Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, president of the Association, has invited the women so engaged to send delegates to a great meeting soon to be held at which plans for the celebration will be perfected. She announces that politics will be strictly barred. One interesting side-light on the work of the Association is in the reference to foreign women. "We have found here painters, singers, sculptors, lace makers, rug makers, and artists of all kinds who are lost today in our foreign colonies; out of touch with their rightful markets and wholly unhappy." The more fortunate self-supporting women are to sponsor them all, coincident with our birthday celebration.

National Emblem.
The rose, England's national flower, was chosen as the country's symbol at the close of the War of the Roses. The shamrock is firmly imbedded in Irish hearts because St. Patrick used it to illustrate one of his sermons. The thistle was adopted as the national emblem of Scotland because, in the reign of Malcolm II, a mottled filled with thistles saved a Scotch fortress from Danish invasion.

In Pitiable Condition when she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sabina, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and irregularity. I was weak and nervous and could hardly stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal. I was this way for about a year and had tried several medicines and had a physician, but to no avail. My sister was taking your medicine and finally induced me to try it. I now feel fine and can do my housework without any trouble at all. You can use this letter for the sake of others if you wish."—Mrs. WELDON G. HATFIELD, R. R. 3, Sabina, Ohio.

Housewives make a great mistake in allowing themselves to become weak and nervous. It is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken when you first notice such symptoms as nervousness, backache, weakness and irregularity. It will help you and prevent more serious trouble. Give it a fair trial. It surely helped Mrs. Hatfield, just as it has many other women.

RALPH CONNOR'S "SKY PILOT" ON THE SCREEN

Delite today shows a human interest story backed up by dramatic incidents which climax in a mad cattle stampede. "The Sky Pilot," which will be shown for an engagement of one day.

The story is taken from Ralph Connor's book of the same title. King Vidor, as director of this Ghering production, has faithfully carried out the sentiment of this popular novel and has taken care that the film version of the story maintains the comely human vein as well as the dramatic incidents that mark the film as one of the most interesting and exciting of the year.

There is no doubt but that the scenes of the cattle stampede in which 4,000 panic-stricken cattle are seen dashing madly on toward the form of the helpless little ranch girl will forever remain in the minds of movie fans.

The Neutral Background.

A clew to the effective use of color in interior decoration is to be found in a consideration of the ways of nature. Here we find the large areas in the softer colors, with accents in brilliant but small patches, as in flowers and birds. A field of quiet color makes the best background to offset beautiful and high-colored objects. That is why all walls and floor coverings are preferred in neutral tones.

sy's home and went into the fields in a general direction of the crab-apple tree.

Mrs. Gibson, in continuing her story, said that instinctively she followed the man and woman who crossed the field.

"When I turned into the dirt road," she said, "I lost one of my moccasins. I dismounted to get it and when I put it on and climbed back on my mule the couple had disappeared."

"A few minutes later I heard loud voices in the direction of the crab-apple tree. I saw a man and a woman, each with a flashlight. They threw the beams on another man and woman. Then, out of the darkness, I heard more loud talking as if all were quarreling. Then I heard a shot."

"I heard a woman's voice scream in horror."

Mrs. Gibson and the woman who screamed uttered a name and shouted, "please, please" and then, said Mrs. Gibson, "I put my heels into my Jenny-mule and went on home."

Judge Mott, the new special state prosecutor, came to New Brunswick today and summoned every principal in the case to the courthouse so that he personally might hear their stories.

JOHN GILBERT IN TIM.
BERLANDS—DRAMA—DELITE

Delite Friday will show John Gilbert, one of William Fox's most recent and successful stars, is being featured in a tale of the timberland of Michigan, entitled "The Yellow Stain," which will have its local premiere at the Delite Friday.

The part portrayed by Mr. Gilbert in this production is unusual, inasmuch as one surmises that he is really acting the part of a coward, whereas the happy ending brings forth the fact that the cowardly strain was merely in the imagination of those surrounding him.

The action of this picture is spirited.
